NEWS REPORTING PREJUDICES CASE, CLAIM

Attorneys Seeking Change Of Venue In Water Department Fee Dispute

Attorneys representing the city of Circleville Thursday were preparing a memorandum of reply to motions asking a change of venue on a fee collection suit filed against the corporation.

The motions requesting the change of venue were filed by attorneys Tom A. Renick and Joseph W. Adkins Jr., who seek to collect $27,500 in fees from the city.

The motion claims that newspaper articles have "prejudiced" Pickaway County against the two attorneys to the point where they feel they cannot secure a fair trial here.

Suit was filed against Circleville during the latter part of 1948 when the two attorneys failed to reach an agreement on fees with the city for their work in establishing the municipal water system.

IN A STAR chamber session of Circleville council and the two attorneys held May 2, the law men were offered for a second time a fee of $13,000 for their services, even though the attorneys had lowered their sights to a $17,000 figure or $10,000 less than their original request.

Renick's suit alone is designed to ask for $15,000—$2,000 more than was offered the pair by the city fathers. Adkins' separate suit asks $12,500.

City representatives have stuck to their guns and refused to increase their offer. It was The Circleville Herald's reporting of activities during the May 2 star chamber session that apparently sowed the seed for the Renick-Adkins motion.

The attorneys have filed their motion for a change of venue in Pickaway County common pleas court, citing that the Herald carried stories "for the purpose of prejudicing the reader," along with an affidavit sworn to by Clarence Helvering, local resident.

The affidavit by Helvering states that while he was a prospective member of the January petit jury panel he was approached by Ray (Hominy) Anderson, Circleville councilman, who allegedly spoke of the merits of the cases of Renick and Adkins.

Helvering's affidavit was entered by the attorneys to show that one prospective juror could have heard the case without an open mind. The January panel will not hear the pending case.

ADKINS' MOTION contains three points as to why the case should be heard in an adjoining county instead of in Pickaway County. They are:

1. That Circleville, its officers or agents, released articles to The Circleville Herald which were untrue and were made for the purpose of prejudicing the reader;

2. That the city caused the terms and conditions of proposed compromise offers to be printed in The Circleville Herald; and

3. That the city, through newspaper articles, has attempted to lay the blame for the shortage of water supply on the attorneys, when, in fact, the city knew of the shortage for several years prior to the filing of the attorney's petitions.

Adkins added that a fair and impartial jury for the trial of the pending case cannot be impaneled in Pickaway County.

Judge William D. Radcliff has reviewed the motions filed by the attorneys and has advised the city to file a memorandum of reply by Saturday.

Ray W. Davis, special attorney for the city, said he and City Solicitor George Gerhardt were preparing the document Thursday and that it would be filed before the deadline.

Judge Radcliff indicated his decision on the motion would come soon after the filing of the city's memorandum.

The judge, after reviewing the motions and the memorandum, will either refer the case to an adjoining county for trial or will recommend the case be aired here.

Displaced Czech Family Arrives To Live Here

A family of displaced Czechoslovakians, homeless following the ravages of World War II, arrived in Pickaway County this week to take up farm duties.

They are Thomas Stepanovsky, his wife and two small children, ages 4 and 2-years-old, who have settled on the Wilder farm near Fox Postoffice.

The family arrived in New York Sunday and immediately boarded a train for Columbus. Arriving in Columbus, the family was met by Catholic Welfare Bureau representatives and moved into Pickaway County.

According to the Rev. Lawrence Corcoran, head of the welfare bureau, the Czechoslovakian family is being sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Wilder of Columbus, who own the Jackson Township farm the family will occupy.

Father Corcoran said the sponsorship of displaced persons, either singly or in family groups, gave them a new lease on life and a new will to live.

The Stepanovskys are to meet the Rev. Edward J. Reidy, pastor of Circleville St. Joseph's church, this week.

Havana Dock Hit By Fire

HAVANA, June 2 — Damage caused by a fire which ravaged the Vaccaro Line docks in Havana last night was estimated today at about $1 million.

The blaze destroyed drums of oil, chemicals, bales of cotton and other stores, but failed to reach any ships.

SENATE WOULD TAX SPECIAL PLATES

$200 Million Turnpike Bill Signed By Ohio Governor

COLUMBUS, June 2 — Only a referendum can now prevent the construction of a $200 million toll turnpike across the fertile farmlands of Northern Ohio.

Gov. Frank Lausche signed the turnpike bill into law after receiving a formal opinion from Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy that the bonds issued to finance such a project are not obligations of the state, but must be retired solely from revenues of the super-highway.

In signing, governor Lausche remarked on "the great contribution that the toll road will make in solving the traffic problem of our state."

The bill passed the senate March 9 by a 26-5 vote and the house May 18 by a 72-49 vote.

It will set up a commission of four members and the highway director which will have power to condemn rights-of-way and to issue bonds to finance a super highway, similar to the famed Pennsylvania Turnpike. When the bonds are retired, the turnpike will revert to the state's free highway system.

IF THEY WISH, opponents of the proposal have 90 days in which to circulate and file some 69,000 signatures on petitions to place the matter before the voters in November. After that, the bill becomes law.

Meanwhile, the senate passed, 29-0, a bill adding a $1 charge to motorists who obtain special low-number or initial license plates. The bill now goes to the house.

The measure was authored by Sen. William Boyd (D-Cleveland) who said he had such a license plate himself and added: "If we ask for such a plate, we should be willing to pay for it."

Boyd said that some 67,000 special licenses are issued each year at a cost of about $44,000. Under the bill, any excess over the actual added cost will go to the highway department's maintenance and repair fund.

The senate also sent to the house, by a 27-0 vote, a bill providing for vaccination of calves to control brucellosis, or bang disease—the cause of undulant fever in humans.

The house finance committee last week increased the appropriation for bang's disease control.

VISHINSKY GETS STUBBORN

Russian Demand For Veto May Doom Paris Parley

PARIS, June 2—Soviet insistence on the iron-clad veto appeared today to doom chances of East-West agreement on a unified Berlin.

Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky's demand that the "rule of unanimity" in other words the veto—apply to any four-power control of Berlin blighted hopes of an accord on the divided German city.

It was an identical demand by Vishinsky which caused the foreign ministers to abandon discussion of unification of all Germany for the Berlin problem.

With the Paris conference approaching its third week, there is a growing feeling in Western circles that an agreement to increase trade between the East and West zones of Germany may be the only concrete result.

YESTERDAY'S initial session on Berlin saw the United States bluntly inform Russia that it has no intention of being pushed out of the former German capital.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson minced no words when he told Vishinsky: "We are in Berlin on account of the power and force and success."

Eisler Readies Berlin Address

BERLIN, June 2 — The Soviet-operated Radio Berlin said today that Gerhardt Eisler has arrived in the city and will speak at a rally in the Soviet sector tonight.

Radio Berlin said the rally will be sponsored by the Presidium of the Communist-dominated Socialist Unity Party.

The Soviet-licensed ADN news agency said Eisler conferred last night in Dresden with Wilhelm Pieck, co-chairman of the Socialist Unity Party and Max Sedeywitz, minister-president of Soviet-occupied Saxony.

30 Unionists Lie In Taking Anti-Red Oath, Claim

WASHINGTON, June 2—The Justice Department is preparing today to press criminal charges against about 30 union executives who allegedly lied in signing Taft-Hartley anti-Communist affidavits.

Department officials added, however, that the indictments will not be sought until the government believes it has airtight cases. Then actions will be filed through local U. S. attorneys on behalf of the government.

The Justice Department estimates that some cases may take as long as six months to develop. Most of the union officials concerned, the department says, are affiliated with the CIO.

The penalty for making false statements to the government is a maximum of 10 years in prison and a fine of not more than $10,000.

FDR Jr. Visits In Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV, June 2—Congressman Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. arrived in Israel today for a week's visit.

The newly-elected New York representative told newsmen at Lydda airport:

"I came here at the invitation of President Weizmann. I am not on an official mission but naturally I will report to President Truman my impressions of the country."

Eniwetok Checks Not OK'd By FBI

Senator Continues A-Energy Probe

WASHINGTON, June 2—Atomic Energy Commission Chairman David Lilienthal admitted today that some participants in the top-secret atomic weapons test at Eniwetok last year had not been investigated by the FBI as required by law.

Lilienthal made the admission after Sen. Hickenlooper, (R) Iowa, charged that the commission has given 3,280 persons access to secret data or restricted areas without the required FBI checkup.

Lilienthal told the congressional committee probing his administration of the atomic program that persons uncared by the FBI were permitted to take part in the Eniwetok test because of lack of time. He said "emergency" clearances were granted by the AEC.

Hickenlooper assailed the lack of FBI checkups on some of those taking part in the super-secret weapons test. He said:

"It is simply stated that the Eniwetok tests were the most highly secret and well-guarded since the first bomb was exploded over the sands of New Mexico."

"THIS COMMITTEE knew weeks and weeks before what the exact date would be. There was ample time for check-ups on personnel."

"But many emergency clearances were given without FBI investigation."

Lilienthal explained: "There appeared a number of places where more information would make the tests more valuable."

"We were faced with the problem of whether to take time for the FBI investigation."

The atomic chairman then chided the committee by saying:

"It was not as relaxing as it is here in the Senate caucus room long after the tests have been carried out."

Lilienthal added: "I do not claim that every one of these cases represent perfect judgment. But they do not represent incredible mismanagement."

Hickenlooper has charged Lilienthal's direction of the atomic program with being "incredible mismanagement."

The Iowa senator charged that the commission's failure to abide by security requirements opened the door to "tactics of the Communist Party." He declared:

"The situation has gone from bad to worse."

THE IOWA senator's figures referred to new employees. He charged that investigations of these persons have lagged as he opened the second day of the congressional probe.

Shanghai Docking Due Next Tuesday

SHANGHAI, June 2—The United States Lines announced today that the first American vessel to dock at Shanghai since the Communist occupation is scheduled to arrive next Tuesday.

The shipping company said that the SS China Victory, operated by the Pacific Far East Line of San Francisco, will stop at Tientsin, Keelung and Hong Kong before docking at Shanghai.

In Canton, Marshal Yen Hsi-Shan, former governor of Shansi Province, accepted the nomination to the premiership of the Nationalist government. Political circles interpreted this as a victory for rightwing elements in the government Kuomintang Party.

The Communist radio in Shanghai announced that foreign and domestic mail service has already been restored in the port city. It said that the first commercial vessel to enter the Whangpoo river since Shanghai fell was permitted to unload cargo.

THE UNITED STATES Lines said that the China Victory is carrying 350 tons of general cargo, and 741 sacks of mail for Shanghai, and will load cargo for its return trip to the United States.

The China Victory also will have the distinction of being the first ship to enter Tientsin since that port was seized by the Communist armies.

Speech-Making Tour By Truman Not Planned

WASHINGTON, June 2—President Truman said today that he is still optimistic about passage of a considerable part of his legislative program at the present session of Congress.

He said he intends to remain in Washington as long as Congress does, and expects longer.

The chief executive told a news conference that he will remain in Washington, aside from a two or three-day trip here and there, until Congress gets its work done, and until he gets his own work done.

Mr. Truman virtually ruled out a possible coast-to-coast "whistlestop" speech-making campaign which he mentioned last Winter.

The President said that the trip, which he stated he might make to whip up support for his legislative program, is not now contemplated. He said the whole idea is on the shelf.

"Might you take it in August or September?" he was asked. The President replied flatly: "No. Then, he added that the trip might not be necessary at all."

"What about next year?" he was asked.

The President said to let next year take care of itself.

No Spanish Loan

WASHINGTON, June 2—President Truman today turned thumbs down on proposals for a United States loan to Spain. He said emphatically that he does not favor such a loan.

ANTHONY J. MARTINO, 40, the "dead" GI whose sudden "resurrection" has caused a marital mixup involving two wives, is back where he started five years ago when he was listed officially as "presumably dead"—back in the Army. He was put back on the payroll as a private by the slightly bewildered Army after being questioned (above) by Lt. Col. Francis J. Quigley (right), Army provost marshal. Martino will be given tests to determine if he has been AWOL or suffering from amnesia as he claims.

COLUMBUS, June 2—A Columbus woman filed a claim for $100,000 damages against the State of Ohio today charging that she was wrongfully held as a feeble-minded patient for 14 years.

Mrs. Mary Gillem claimed in a suit filed with the sundry claims board that she was held in the Columbus State School for Feeble-Minded from 1927 until 1941.

She said that upon her release, Dr. Clyde B. Simpson, director of the Dayton Guidance Clinic, reported the results of her examination showed no mental retardation.

The Yugoslav note was flatly rejected as "gross slander," and the worsening of relations between the two once-friendly states was attributed rather to "the hostile policy pursued by the government of Yugoslavia toward the Soviet Union."

ONE SPECIFIC demand of Russia forbid further activity by Yugoslav emigres in Russia and ban a newspaper published by these emigres in Moscow—was dealt with at length.

The Soviet note, handed to the Yugoslav foreign ministry in Belgrade on May 31, said: "The USSR will continue to give hospitality to patriotic emigres who are persecuted by the Yugoslav anti-democratic regime because they are staunch fighters for Yugoslavia's independence and builders of friendship between Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union."

The Yugoslav note was flatly rejected as "gross slander," and the worsening of relations between the two once-friendly states was attributed rather to "the hostile policy pursued by the government of Yugoslavia toward the Soviet Union."

House leaders declared that President Truman would be forced to veto the measure in the form it passed the House on grounds of excessive cost.

Rep. Rankin, (D) Miss., who was beaten earlier in the session on an attempt to drive through a pension bill, succeeded in removing an "unemployability" requirement in his new measure which would boost its cost by $57 billion in the next 50 years.

Administration spokesmen pointed out that the House action almost would triple the costs of pension benefits for disabled and needy World War I and II veterans in the 50-year period.

The bill in general enacts into law existing benefits now being paid to ex-servicemen under Veterans Administration regulations.

2. As recently as May 12 Hickenlooper himself stated that the "loyalty and character in this whole time, through the present commission, has been of an unusual high order." He quoted Hickenlooper as saying further of the atomic commission:

"The percentage of undesirable persons who would occasionally have access to restricted data is remarkably low and indicates a standard that would not be excelled or equalled among other classes of people." Lilienthal noted that Hickenlooper's emergency employee list included Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and said "I'm sure he too will be relieved that there are no blanket charges."

Wayne Advances 13 In Eighth Grade Rites

Thirteen Wayne Township eighth graders were advanced into the freshman class during commencement exercises Wednesday.

George W. Mallett, principal of the elementary school, introduced the class and presented awards during the graduation exercises, while diplomas were awarded by George D. McDowell, county superintendent of schools.

Members of the graduating group were Bonetta Adams, valedictorian; Mary Haynes, salutatorian; and Donald Davis, Frances Davis, Charlotte Hoffman, Louise Jacobs, Orville Jacobs, Lloyd Koch, Marian Maynard, Connie Newton, Dale Rogers, Mary Vandergift and Glenn Williams.

The graduates will begin their high school careers in Circleville high school next fall.

Bookie Patrons Awaiting 'Game'

CLEVELAND, June 2—Cleveland police broke through three locked doors into a suspected bookie joint late yesterday.

Inside the room above an east garage they found wall charts, racing forms, scratch sheets, telephones, a television set and about 50 persons.

"We're just waiting for the night baseball game to come on," most of the 50 explained. All but two, alleged operators of the "meeting hall," were released.

'Blond Bandit' Awaits Charge

YOUNGSTOWN, June 2—Youngstown police were expected to file unarmed robbery charges today against a 33-year-old former Warren policeman known as the daring "blond bandit."

The suspect, who allegedly robbed two suburban Cleveland hardware stores with a toy pistol and stole a car after an attempted chain store holdup, surrendered Monday to Youngstown authorities.

Cleveland police marked their end of the case "closed" after it was discovered a car the suspect was driving was the one stolen following the attempted holdup.

Livestock Club To Hear Reports

Fifteen members of Logan Elm Livestock 4-H Club responded to roll call at a meeting held in the home of Robert Arledge. Plans were made for the next meeting when the group will meet in the home of the adviser, Luther List. At that time Arledge and Victor Pontius are to give reports on selecting breeding gilts and dairy heifers.

trol from $600,000 for the biennium to a cool $1 million.

BY A 118-0 VOTE, the house sent to the senate a bill to permit the bridge commission to continue to charge tolls after bonds are retired to pay any back debts due the state for expenses incurred in retiring the bonds.

It also passed, 92-29, a bill to create a nine-member commission to investigate conservation and fishing practices in Sandusky Bay, and to report back to the legislature by Jan. 15, 1951.

The house defeated by a single vote—67-48—a bill to set up a 13-member Ohio recreation commission, and passed without a vote to spare—68-48—a bill to broaden county zoning powers. A bill needs 68 votes to pass the house.

Worked Denied Compensation In Court Ruling

COLUMBUS, June 2—A Martins Ferry laborer lost all rights to workmen's compensation today when the Ohio supreme court ruled an employer was not liable when a worker attempted to operate machinery without authority to do so.

The high court, affirming the judgments of the Belmont County common pleas and seventh district appellate courts, denied benefits to Steve Georgejakakis, a laborer in the Martins Ferry plant of the Wheeling Steel Corp.

Georgejakakis lost the fingers on one hand March 7, 1943, when he caught his hand in a pressing machine he was attempting to operate without authority to do so, and in the absence of the machine operator.

His appeal from the industrial commission ruling, which had been upheld by the two lower courts, was dismissed by the high court which ruled:

"Where a laborer in an industrial plant, whose duties are limited in scope, voluntarily, deliberately and without authority or necessity, steps out of the orbit of his employment and attempts to operate a machine, an undertaking altogether foreign to the work he was hired to do, he engages himself to a hazard not contemplated by his employment as a laborer, and is not entitled to workmen's compensation for injuries sustained in such undertaking."

Defense Ready In Murder Trial

COLUMBUS, June 2—The defense for pretty brunette divorcee Virginia Pearson was to take over today in her Franklin County trial for the second degree murder of a former sheriff's deputy, Frank V. Martin.

Attorney Paul R. Genger was expected to put the 30-year old mother of two on the stand.

Mrs. Isabel Martin, widow of the man Mrs. Pearson was "associated with" for more than three years, testified the defendant made three clear-cut threats against the life of her husband.

Slash In Bond To Be Sought

INDIANAPOLIS, June 2—William Easterday was expected to ask a bond-slash from $25,000 to $10,000 here today to gain his freedom pending an appeal of an adverse decision in federal court.

Easterday, wanted in Toledo on charges growing out of illegal operations of the now-defunct White Construction Co., was ordered back to jail late yesterday after denial of a writ of habeas corpus.

His attorney has indicated he will appeal the decision to the Indiana supreme court.

DEATHS and Funerals

MRS. WILLIAM WHARTON Mrs. Minnie Wharton, 80, formerly of Tarlton, died at 5 a. m. Thursday in a Columbus hospital following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Wharton was born Nov. 1, 1868, in Vinton County, daughter of LaFayette and Susan King Lanman. She was the widow of the late William Wharton of Tarlton.

Surviving her is a daughter, Mrs. Fred Kreider of Pickaway Township; two sons, Frank Wharton of Walnut Township and George Wharton of Upper Arlington; three brothers, Thurman Lanman of Pataskala and John and Leslie Lanman of near Ashville; two sisters, Mrs. Belle Tomlinson of Darbyville and Mrs. Frances Chalfin of Circleville Route 4; four grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

The body has been removed to Defenbaugh Funeral Home pending arrangements.

WILLIAM JONES

William Jones, 63, formerly of Circleville, died at 5 p. m. Wednesday in Echo Rest Home, Columbus, following a short illness. Mr. Jones was born Oct. 22, 1882, in Missouri, son of Henry and Susan Jones.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Martha Richardson of Chicago; and a brother, Fred, also of Chicago.

Funeral services are to be held at 9:30 a. m. Saturday in Defenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. John Boyd officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

English Medic Warns Against Social Medicine

COLUMBUS, June 2—One of England's top-notch surgeons laced into socialized medicine before a medical convention meeting here today.

Dr. A. Lawrence Abel of London said Englishmen were paying exorbitant costs for poorer medical care than they received before World War II.

The noted surgeon advised "politicians and planners" setting up cost estimates for health services to "be very wise and treble the estimates."

He spoke on "The Status of Socialized Medicine in England Today" at the luncheon session of the American Protological Society here yesterday. The section of medicine of England met in conjunction with the American society.

Abel said: "The most serious aspects from the public's angle is that the apparent medical benefits cloak the real loss of true medicine."

"The public must realize that true medicine means early diagnosis and early good treatment. I sincerely warn the people not to be 'logged' by a few so-called free medical things to the exclusion of that intangible thing—good medical care."

Humans Know Too Little

GRANVILLE, June 2—A nationally-known scientist from Dayton told a Denison university session yesterday "the human race wouldn't last two minutes if we had to run ourselves on what we know about ourselves."

Charles F. Kettering, General Motors Corp. executive and scientist, told the colleges and sciences session of the week-long convocation that today's problem "is to find out what we know and what we don't know and then go out and find the answer to what we don't know."

successfully to reach agreement on that problem."

But hopes for agreement were virtually shattered with Vishinsky's demand for "unanimity."

Acheson advanced several proposals for unifying Berlin, including free elections under four-power supervision, and four-power administration of a less rigid variety than suggested by Moscow.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin attempted to secure a compromise from Vishinsky, asking him to mark off different fields where majority rule and unanimity would obtain. But the Soviet minister was unwilling to budge from his "veto or nothing" position.

Cattle Theft Report Received By Sheriff

A reward of $500 has been offered for information leading to the recovery of three head of cattle reported stolen from the farm of John Walters of Catlettsburg, Ky., according to Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff.

The sheriff said the information was passed on to him by Sheriff Charles Eavens of Boyd County, Ky. Th. Kentuck sheriff said he was making a routine check of Ohio counties because he had heard reports of cattle rustling in this section of the state.

The three cattle were described as a black and white Holstein heifer weighing 750 pounds, a yellow Jersey milking cow weighing 900 pounds and a mouse-colored Jersey Springer weighing 900 pounds.

Sheriff Radcliff also reported he had received a complaint from Paul Peters of Harrison Township concerning the loss of a year old black Angus heifer weighing 500-600 pounds. The animal was reported missing since last Sunday.

Another report on a missing 500 pound black Angus heifer was received from Alvin Holbrook of Williamsport Route 2 Thursday, the sheriff said. He added that investigations are being carried out to determine whether the animals were stolen.

Citizens Panel Named To Hear Police Squabble

LANCASTER, June 2—A committee of six private citizens were ready today to sit down to an investigation of Lancaster's police department squabble.

Mayor Fred Von Stein appointed the committee yesterday. At the same time Police Capt. Laurence Bauer and Lt. Merrill Martin, two dismissed officers, issued a statement that they never were given a hearing on charges filed by Police Chief Sam H. Hutsler.

Hutsler charged the dismissed men with insubordination and neglect of duty after they accused him of permitting Police Lt. Everett Brown to extort money from Lancaster retailers. Brown was charged with the extortion. He was fired, too.

Bauer, Martin and Brown all said they would appeal their discharges to the civil service commission.

The committee members named yesterday are Contractor A. B. Van Gundy, Dr. C. G. Axline, Bank President Charles M. Wilkins, Wholesale Oil Dealer Fred Scholl Jr., Dr. W. E. Wiyeach and Porter Kauffman, owner of the Lancaster airport.

McCrary Loses In Duel With Adding Gadget

It started out as a simple exercise in addition, but it ended in a duel—Police Chief William McCrary against an adding machine.

All the chief wanted to do Thursday morning was add up a short column of figures to reach a total somewhere near 15. But the mechanical contrivances of an engineering age were giving him trouble—the adding machine kept giving back 902,859.51.

McCrary pushed the buttons and pulled the lever. He was obstinate. So was the machine.

"It's busted," he muttered. At last he called for aid, and Patrolman Turney Ross came in. He punched the same buttons, pulled the same lever—and the answer came out correct.

"It's just a machine," said the chief. "There couldn't be anything personal."

year and at $50.1 millions for the second year. This total is over and above what governments of recipient countries are expected to pay for the cost of technical assistance provided.

The plan, offered by the secretary general and eight specialized agencies affiliated with UN, foresees the worldwide program for recovery "not in year, but in decades" and as dependent mainly upon United States assistance.

Entitled "technical assistance for economic development," the two-part report will be studied by the Economic and Social Council at its forthcoming ninth session this Summer and will be transmitted to the General Assembly for final approval, possibly in September.

$75,000 Damage Suit Is Booked For Trial Here

A $75,000 damage suit launched against an Ashville Route 2 man is slated to be tried by the May petit jury panel in Pickaway Common pleas court on June 20.

The suit has been filed by Charles S. Wells of Columbus against Charles Moss of near Ashville.

Wells' petition states that he and Moss were walking through a field in Pickaway County on Feb. 2, 1946, when Moss' 12-gauge shotgun negligently discharged into the rear of Wells' legs.

The petition continues that Wells was injured so badly that the left leg was amputated above the knee and that the right leg was permanently injured.

Coats Taken From Parked Car

Theft of two coats from a coupe parked near his home was reported by Turney Kraft of Circleville Route 4 to Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff Thursday.

Kraft said the thieves also pushed a 1927 truck out of his barn. The vehicle was left at the edge of an embankment in the barnyard when the intruders apparently were unable to start the engine.

Emmett Evans' Parents Of 1st Baby In June

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Evans of 310 Watt street are the parents of Circleville's first baby born in June.

The new arrival is a boy, born in Berger hospital at 2:05 p. m. Wednesday. He has been named Thomas Patrick Evans, and has one brother, Edward Evans.

As Circleville's first-born in June, Thomas will receive the following tributes from Circleville businessmen:

A quart of Blue Ribbon Dairy milk every day for two weeks; A floral tribute from Bremer's Greenhouse;

$1 worth of merchandise from the G. C. Murphy Co. baby department;

A $1 savings account with the Circleville Savings and Banking Co.;

One carton of 60-watt lamps from the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.;

A baby blanket from the C. J. Schneider Furniture Co.; and a free three-months subscription to The Circleville Herald.

The parents will be awarded a gift certificate entitling them to the above awards by calling in the offices of The Herald.

Attorney Paul R. Genger was expected to put the 30-year old mother of two on the stand.

Mrs. Isabel Martin, widow of the man Mrs. Pearson was "associated with" for more than three years, testified the defendant made three clear-cut threats against the life of her husband.

Slash In Bond To Be Sought

INDIANAPOLIS, June 2—William Easterday was expected to ask a bond-slash from $25,000 to $10,000 here today to gain his freedom pending an appeal of an adverse decision in federal court.

Easterday, wanted in Toledo on charges growing out of illegal operations of the now-defunct White Construction Co., was ordered back to jail late yesterday after denial of a writ of habeas corpus.

His attorney has indicated he will appeal the decision to the Indiana supreme court.

DEATHS and Funerals

MRS. WILLIAM WHARTON
Mrs. Minnie Wharton, 80, formerly of Tarleton, died at 5 a. m. Thursday in a Columbus hospital following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Wharton was born Nov. 1, 1868, in Vinton County, daughter of LaFayette and Susan King Lanman. She was the widow of the late William Wharton of Tarleton.

Surviving her is a daughter, Mrs. Fred Kreider of Pickaway Township; two sons, Frank Wharton of Walnut Township and George Wharton of Upper Arlington; three brothers, Thurman Lanman of Pataskala and John and Leslie Lanman of near Ashville; two sisters, Mrs. Belle Tomlinson of Darbyville and Mrs. Frances Chalfin of Circleville Route 4; four grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

The body has been removed to Defenbaugh Funeral Home pending arrangements.

WILLIAM JONES

William Jones, 63, formerly of Circleville, died at 5 p. m. Wednesday in Echo Rest Home, Columbus, following a short illness.

Mr. Jones was born Oct. 22, 1882, in Missouri, son of Henry and Susan Jones.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Martha Richardson of Chicago; and a brother, Fred, also of Chicago.

Funeral services are to be held at 9:30 a. m. Saturday in Defenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. John Boyd officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

English Medic Warns Against Social Medicine

COLUMBUS, June 2—One of England's top-notch surgeons laced into socialized medicine before a medical convention meeting here today.

Dr. A. Lawrence Abel of London said Englishmen were paying exorbitant costs for poorer medical care than they received before World War II.

The noted surgeon advised "politicians and planners" setting up cost estimates for health services to "be very wise and treble the estimates."

He spoke on "The Status of Socialized Medicine In England Today" at the luncheon session of the American Proctological Society here yesterday. The section of proctology, Royal Society of Medicine of England met in conjunction with the American society.

Abel said: "The most serious aspects from the public's angle is that the apparent medical benefits cloak the real loss of true medicine."

"The public must realize that true medicine means early diagnosis and early good treatment. I sincerely warn the people not to be 'logged' by a few so-called free medical things to the exclusion of that intangible thing—good medical care."

Humans Know Too Little

GRANVILLE, June 2—A nationally-known scientist from Dayton told a Denison university session yesterday "the human race wouldn't last two minutes if we had to run ourselves on what we know about ourselves."

Charles F. Kettering, General Motors Corp. executive and scientist, told the colleges and sciences session of the week-long convocation that today's problem "is to find out what we know and what we don't know and then go out and find the answer to what we don't know."

successfully to reach agreement on that problem."

But hopes for agreement were virtually shattered with Vishinsky's demand for "unanimity."

Acheson advanced several proposals for unifying Berlin, including free elections under four-power supervision, and four-power administration of a less rigid variety than suggested by Moscow.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin attempted to secure a compromise from Vishinsky, asking him to mark off different fields where majority rule and unanimity would obtain. But the Soviet minister was unwilling to budge from his "veto or nothing" position.

Cattle Theft Report Received By Sheriff

A reward of $500 has been offered for information leading to the recovery of three head of cattle reported stolen from the farm of John Walters of Catlettsburg, Ky., according to Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff.

The sheriff said the information was passed on to him by Sheriff Charles Eavens of Boyd County, Ky. Th. Kentucky sheriff said he was making a routine check of Ohio counties because he had heard reports of cattle rustling in this section of the state.

The three cattle were described as a black and white Holstein heifer weighing 750 pounds, a yellow Jersey milking cow weighing 900 pounds and a mouse-colored Jersey Springer weighing 900 pounds.

Sheriff Radcliff also reported he had received a complaint from Paul Peters of Harrison Township concerning the loss of a year old black Angus heifer weighing 500-600 pounds. The animal was reported missing since last Sunday.

Another report on a missing 500 pound black Angus heifer was received from Alvin Holbrook of Williamsport Route 2 Thursday, the sheriff said. He added that investigations are being carried out to determine whether the animals were stolen.

Citizens Panel Named To Hear Police Squabble

LANCASTER, June 2—A committee of six private citizens were ready today to sit down on an investigation of Lancaster's police department squabble.

Mayor Fred Von Stein appointed the committee yesterday. Laurence Bauer and Lt. Merrill Martin, two dismissed officers, issued a statement that they never were given a hearing on charges filed by Police Chief Sam H. Hutsler.

Hutsler charged the dismissed men with insubordination and neglect of duty after they accused him of permitting Police Lt. Everett Brown to extort money from Lancaster retailers. Brown was charged with the extortion. He was fired, too.

Bauer, Martin and Brown all said they would appeal their discharges to the civil service commission.

The committee members named yesterday are Contractor A. B. Van Gundy, Dr. C. G. Axline, Bank President Charles M. Wilkins, Wholesale Oil Dealer Fred Scholl Jr., Dr. W. E. Wiyeach and Porter Kauffman, owner of the Lancaster airport.

Toledoan Faces Cop Questions

CLEVELAND, June 2—An ex-Toledo man was to be questioned again by police today concerning a new lead in the May 13 slaying of Philip A. Faranda in his west side Cleveland home.

The informant, also a west sider, told Cleveland authorities he moved from Toledo because a man was "molesting" his wife, a friend of the Farandas.

He added that the "molester" recently had visited Cleveland and expressed interest in the amount of money kept in the Faranda home.

Faranda, a truck driver for the Osher Brothers Meat Co. in Elyria, was shot through the heart with a .38-caliber pistol during a bedroom struggle.

McCrary Loses In Duel With Adding Gadget

It started out as a simple exercise in addition, but it ended in a duel—Police Chief William McCrary against an adding machine.

All the chief wanted to do Thursday morning was add up a short column of figures to reach a total somewhere near 15. But the mechanical contrivances of an engineering age were giving him trouble—the adding machine kept giving back 902,859.51.

McCrary pushed the buttons and pulled the lever. He was obstinate. So was the machine.

"It's busted," he muttered.

At last he called for aid, and Patrolman Turney Ross came in. He punched the same buttons, pulled the same lever—and the answer came out correct.

"It's just a machine," said the chief. "There couldn't be anything personal."

He walked away fingering a pencil.

year and at $50.1 millions for the second year. This total is over and above what governments of recipient countries are expected to pay for the cost of technical assistance provided.

The plan, offered by the secretary general and eight specialized agencies affiliated with UN, foresees the worldwide program for recovery "not in year, but in decades" and as dependent mainly upon United States assistance.

Entitled "technical assistance for economic development," the two-part report will be studied by the Economic and Social Council at its forthcoming ninth session this Summer and will be transmitted to the General Assembly for final approval, possibly in September.

$75,000 Damage Suit Is Booked For Trial Here

A $75,000 damage suit launched against an Ashville Route 2 man is slated to be tried by the May petit jury panel in Pickaway Common pleas court on June 20.

The suit has been filed by Charles S. Wells of Columbus against Charles Moss of near Ashville.

Wells' petition states that he and Moss were walking through a field in Pickaway County on Feb. 2, 1946, when Moss' 12-gauge shotgun negligently discharged into the rear of Wells' legs.

The petition continues that Wells was injured so badly that the left leg was amputated above the knee and that the right leg was permanently injured.

Coats Taken From Parked Car

Theft of two coats from a coupe parked near his home was reported by Turney Kraft of Circleville Route 4 to Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff Thursday.

Kraft said the thieves also pushed a 1927 truck out of his barn. The vehicle was left at the edge of an embankment in the barnyard when the intruders apparently were unable to start the engine.

Emmett Evans' Parents Of 1st Baby In June

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Evans of 310 Watt street are the parents of Circleville's first baby born in June.

The new arrival is a boy, born in Berger hospital at 2:05 p. m. Wednesday. He has been named Thomas Patrick Evans, and has one brother, Edward Evans.

As Circleville's first-born in June, Thomas will receive the following tributes from Circleville businessmen:

A quart of Blue Ribbon Dairy milk every day for two weeks; A floral tribute from Bremer's Greenhouse; $1 worth of merchandise from the G. C. Murphy Co. baby department; A $1 savings account with the Circleville Savings and Banking Co.;

One carton of 60-watt lamps from the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.;

A baby blanket from the C. J. Schneider Furniture Co.; and a free three-months subscription to The Circleville Herald.

The parents will be awarded a gift certificate entitling them to the above awards by calling in the offices of The Herald.

Scouts Set For Annual Camporee

Children's Home To Be Event Site

Boy Scout troops throughout the Pickaway district are planning for the annual camporee to be held June 10, 11 and 12 in the woods behind the children's home.

The camping and activities chairman, Dr. David Goldschmidt, reports that 11 Scout troops and about 200 Scouts are expected to participate in the camping event.

Host Scouts at the camporee will be the children's home troop, newest in the district. They are preparing the camp ground and erecting stiles over fences.

Climax of the event will be visitors night Saturday, June 11, when parents and friends are invited to sit around the campfire with Scouts to swap yarns and try the old camp fire songs.

Friday night, June 10, program will be capped by an after-dinner scoutmaster hamburger feed.

DISTRICT Committeeman-at-large Dick Morris will preside at the griddle. He is to garnish the burgers with "a secret formula sauce imported from Missouri," according to Ray Turner, district Scout executive.

Champion troops will be selected in both general campcraft and scoutcraft contests. Troop and district committeemen will be on hand to serve as judges, sampling camp meals, timing speed firebuilding events, and estimating the practicability of troop camps.

All Scouts will assemble early Sunday morning, June 12, for a joint church service conducted by Circleville pastors.

Camp will be broken in time for Scouts to eat Sunday dinner at home.

More Smiles per Gallon with Dynaflo Drive

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

THERE'S the smile when you slip the selector lever into Driving notch—and realize that's all there is to do.

There's the smile when you swing smoothly up to cruising speed without halt or check or break of stride. There's the smile at traffic lights when you halt, wait, then move away with never a thought about shifting.

But the broadest grin of all comes at the end of a long day's drive and you find you've covered more miles more easily. Even your treadle-foot—so likely to become tired and cramped maintaining an even speed in direct-drive cars—appreciates the fluid ease of Dynaflo.

For Dynaflo Drive is not merely a new transmission. It's a new experience—a new luxury in driving. In ten minutes you are handling it like a veteran—in two days you wouldn't be without it.

Small wonder, then, that Dynaflo is the drive with which all new developments in transmissions are compared.

Not merely "something better," it is something entirely new, the first exciting chapter in a whole new book.

Go learn for yourself how abundantly rich in pleasure every gallon becomes when you have Dynaflo.

Your Buick dealer will be glad to demonstrate—glad to quote delivered prices—glad to talk terms of as fine a deal as you could want.

And you'll find glad surprise in the delivery dates he is now mentioning.

Scouts Set For Annual Camporee

Children's Home To Be Event Site

Boy Scout troops throughout the Pickaway district are planning for the annual camporee to be held June 10, 11 and 12 in the woods behind the children's home.

The camping and activities chairman, Dr. David Goldschmidt, reports that 11 Scout troops and about 200 Scouts are expected to participate in the camping event.

Host Scouts at the camporee will be the children's home troop, newest in the district. They are preparing the camp ground and erecting stiles over fences.

Climax of the event will be visitors night Saturday, June 11, when parents and friends are invited to sit around the campfire with Scouts to swap yarns and try the old camp fire songs.

Friday night, June 10, program will be capped by an after-taps scoutmaster hamburger feed.

DISTRICT Committeeman-at-large Dick Morris will preside at the griddle. He is to garnish the burgers with "a secret formula" according to Ray Turner, district Scout executive.

Champion troops will be selected in both general campcraft and scoutcraft contests. Troop and district committeemen will be on hand to serve as judges, sampling camp meals, timing speed firebuilding events, and estimating the practicability of troop camps.

All Scouts will assemble early Sunday morning, June 12, for a joint church service conducted by Circleville pastors.

Camp will be broken in time for Scouts to eat Sunday dinner at home.

KIWANIANS SPONSOR EVENT

'Go To Church' Campaign Readied By Boy Scouts

Three Boy Scout troops will open a "go to church" campaign in Circleville Saturday afternoon.

The campaign, designed to fill local churches next Sunday (Fentecost), is sponsored by Circleville Kiwanis Club.

Kiwanians report they have received the approval of the Pickaway County Ministerial Association for the project, and have obtained lapel cards to be distributed Saturday by the Boy Scouts.

The lapel cards contain the phrase "I'm going to church tomorrow—are you?" on one contains the theme phrase of the campaign:

"Go to church Sunday."
Boy Scouts of troops 191, 121 and 107 are to begin at noon Saturday on Circleville streets, suggesting that the citizens attend the church of their choice on Sunday.
A schedule for the troops has been arranged, so that two of the groups will campaign for two hours each and the third will conduct a four-hour drive.

Schedule for the campaigning troops is: Troop 191, Emmitt Lade Scoutmaster, Noon to 2 p. m.; Troop 121, Bob Dean Scoutmaster, 2 p. m. until 4 p. m.; and Troop 107, Carl Jenkins Scoutmaster, 4 p. m. until 8 p. m.

Joe Ferguson Wants Check On GOP Spending

COLUMBUS, June 2—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, who lists himself as a "potential candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator," today asked the Democratic national committee "to keep a check on Sen. Robert A. Taft's campaign expenses."

Ferguson wrote Sen. J. Howard McGrath, national Democratic chairman: "If the Taft force attempts to buy this election with expensive radio, newspaper and magazine propaganda, the people should know about it while the painful process is going on—not after the election."
"In past senatorial elections in Ohio, an incredible amount of money, running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, has been spent to elect Republican candidates. These things are tantamount to buying elections."

LOSES 35 LBS., NOW WEARS SLIM 16 AGAIN

Cleveland Lady Feels And Looks Like New Person, Thanks To Rennel

"Since taking Rennel for over a period of three months I have lost 35 pounds," writes Mrs. M. L. Luciano, 16519 Burnside Ave., Cleveland 10, Ohio. "Before taking Rennel I weighed 170 lbs. I now weigh 135 lbs. and have never known a hungry moment. My dress size is a 16 again, and I look and feel like a new person. I have more pep now than I had 20 years ago."
Imagine, eat plenty and lose weight with this simple yet effective amazing home recipe. After purchasing a bottle of Rennel from your druggist pour the contents into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. No diets to complicate your meal planning. No expensive vitamins to fortify your system from weakness while going without food for you can eat normally. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender, more youthful curves—if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Don't be switched to another product, insist on genuine Rennel.

KIWANIS SPONSOR EVENT

'Go To Church' Campaign Readied By Boy Scouts

Three Boy Scout troops will open a "go to church" campaign in Circleville Saturday afternoon.

The campaign, designed to fill local churches next Sunday (Fentecost), is sponsored by Circleville Kiwanis Club.

Kiwanians report they have received the approval of the Pickaway County Ministerial Association for the project, and have obtained lapel cards to be distributed Saturday by the Boy Scouts.

The lapel cards contain the phrase "I'm going to church tomorrow—are you?" on one contains the theme phrase of the campaign:

"Go to church Sunday."
Boy Scouts of troops 191, 121 and 107 are to begin at noon Saturday on Circleville streets, suggesting that the citizens attend the church of their choice on Sunday.

A schedule for the troops has been arranged, so that two of the groups will campaign for two hours each and the third will conduct a four-hour drive.

Schedule for the campaigning troops is: Troop 191, Emmitt Dade Scoutmaster, Noon to 2 p. m.; Troop 121, Bob Dean Scoutmaster, 2 p. m. until 4 p. m.; and Troop 107, Carl Jenkins Scoutmaster, 4 p. m. until 8 p. m.

Joe Ferguson Wants Check On GOP Spending

COLUMBUS, June 2—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, who lists himself as a "potential candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator," today asked the Democratic national committee "to keep a check on Sen. Robert A. Taft's campaign expenses."

Ferguson wrote Sen. J. Howard McGrath, national Democratic chairman:

"If the Taft force attempts to buy this election with expensive radio, newspaper and magazine propaganda, the people should know about it while the painful process is going on—not after the election."

"In past senatorial elections in Ohio, an incredible amount of money, running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, has been spent to elect Republican candidates. These things are tantamount to buying elections."

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

RESULTS OF BAD WINTER

THE weather, sometimes the enemy and sometimes the ally of the farmer, rancher and cattleman, occasionally cancels out blows with blessings.

This fact has been illustrated in reports of the latest effects of the past severe winter. The huge amounts of snow deposited on the great western plains by seven weeks of blizzards have been absorbed as moisture by the land. The temperatures of the Spring have regulated the melting and running off of the snow to the extent that fear of great general floods has not been realized. Irrigation water is plentiful and will continue so, because of snow piled on mountain tops.

While Nebraska reports severe winter wheat damage, good prospects are seen there for grain sown this Spring. Kansas expects the third largest wheat crop on record. Other western states report crop prospects as good or better than average. Livestock owners are optimistic about this year's gains, which are expected nearly, if not quite, to make up for the winter's losses.

Farmers and ranchers, if they are to survive, must be philosophers. The disheartening lack of cooperation which often seems to be shown by Nature must be accepted with equanimity. Her occasional good moods must be seized upon and made use of. The year has been described as a circle; the farmer-philosopher must see it in the round and have faith that it encompasses complete fruition.

FINDING A MAID

HOUSEWIVES who have been desperately searching for a maid might try looking in New York City. This word comes from the New York State Labor Department, which attributes the availability of maids to slackening employment. Time was when every moderately well-to-do family had a maid. Except for occasional help from outside, those days are over. So far as can now be seen the lady of the moderately financed house will be the cook, cleaning woman and maid of all work for an indefinite period. The New York straw to the contrary is only a straw.

New household gadgets continue to relieve the homemaker of part of her drudgery, as many have done already. There is no surplus of maids because so many other fields are now open to women. They go into factories by thousands.

These Days

When Comrade Vishinsky, who bowed like an old-fashioned diplomat according to reports, raised the issue of putting Japan on the agenda of the four powers, he was not fooling. It was a wise move from the Russian standpoint and logical from the state of events. It is probably the most important business that was raised in Paris.

The reason is that the Russians have outflanked us in Japan. Their military movements in China, their conquest of so much of that country, the treacherous stupidity of the State Department policy in China, their failure to grasp that derelict nations must today either lean on the Russians or on us and that if we remove ourselves, they will be forced to embrace the Russians—all that gave Vishinsky his reason and his opportunity. With all his politeness and his hand-shakes, Vishinsky was full of sardonic fun. He was laughing up his sleeve.

There must be no mistaking what it would mean if we withdrew our troops from either Germany or Japan. It would mean that sooner or later those derelict countries would fall into the hands of the Russians. It is true that Western Germany has recovered surprisingly and probably could, in time, become the savior of Europe as a competent industrial nation. As for Japan, it can become a powerful nation under our tutelage; it might even become the savior of the East of Asia. Without us, Japan and Korea must go as Manchuria, Mongolia and North China have gone. Maybe that is what the smart boys in the State Department have always wanted; maybe that is what they planned when they wrote Gen. George Marshall's orders on his tour in China—a tour that might have ended successfully, instead of in failure, had he not so rigidly adhered to those instructions.

Obviously at this state, the Asiatic question—I use Asiatic instead of China for greater accuracy—is no longer in the field of diplomacy. It is no longer limited to the countries on the other side of the Pacific. It is strictly a matter of the national defense of the United States. It is strictly a matter of military planning and activity.

Suppose Gen. Chiang Kai-shek does establish a base in Formosa, out of which he deploys guerrillas in South China to scorch the earth, to burn cities, to develop mass resistance; it will not be sufficient to keep the Russians out of Burma, Malaya, Indonesia, French Indo-China and eventually India. If, on the other hand, the forces of the United States under Gen. MacArthur in Japan combine with the efforts of Chiang as a rebel against Russian aggression, a sufficient power can be developed to contain the Russians in Manchuria and North China down to Shanghai.

When Vishinsky in Paris raised the question of Japan, he was, in reality, hitting at this problem. When he speaks of a peace treaty with Japan, he really refers to the withdrawal of MacArthur from Japan. This means that Chiang would be permanently deserted and that the Philippines would, in the end, be forced into the Soviet world. When a man has this in mind, he can afford to be as surprisingly polite as the reports say he was at the opening session in Paris.

There is only one solution to this problem and that is to send a military mission to Asia to determine our course.

New Infant Care in Hospitals

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THERE can be no doubt that as a rule birth is safer today in a hospital, and that the mother is usually well cared for there in the days immediately following the delivery of her baby. On the other hand, there is no denying that epidemics, particularly of infant diarrhea, which sometimes break out in hospital nurseries, are a grave threat to the baby.

In an attempt to prevent such outbreaks, and also bring mothers closer to their babies, a new plan has been tried in a number of hospitals. Instead of being placed in a nursery, the baby stays in a room with its mother. One such study of more than 1400 cases indicates that this method helped to prevent epidemic infections, improved the relation between mother and baby, and served as a stimulus to breast feeding.

Trained Supervision

Furthermore, with the baby at her bedside, the mother, first by watching the care given by trained people, next by undertaking it herself under trained supervision, becomes acquainted with the baby's habits and gains much more confidence in being able to care for the baby at home.

Among the more than 1400 babies who were cared for at the bedside of the mother in a well-known hospital, there was not one case of skin infection or serious disturbances of the stomach or bowel.

It is felt that if any single newborn baby gets an infection when the above type of procedure is used, it can be controlled by confining the disorder to the one room in which it occurs. Of course, if the mothers are cared for in wards, there might be up to six babies exposed in a ward but, even in such cases, the infection is confined to a single ward room. Outbreaks will not occur even in nurseries if proper techniques are used.

Pride in Care

It was found, too, that when the babies were kept by their mothers' besides the mothers did not have more time on their hands than they knew what to do with. Instead, the mothers kept close guard over their infants and took pride in their care. It was noted that the entire atmosphere of the ward changed, becoming hushed and quiet. It is rare in this type of procedure for the babies to do much crying. It was also found that more than 85 percent of the mothers nursed their babies. The mother put the baby to the breast whenever it appeared to be hungry. The milk came in more freely, and one-fourth of the babies regained their birth weight by the fifth day after birth.

It would appear that this type of newborn baby care in hospitals is deserving of the further study and investigation that it is not getting.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Russians saw political significance in the arrival of Tom Dewey in Paris but if he has any he must have developed it since he left here.

Still they've got a point. It is hard to believe a man who brings his wife to Paris and says: "I came here for a good time."

Not that a man couldn't have a good time in Paris with his wife, but has anyone ever tried it before?

Anyway the four-party conference is coming along nicely. Three of the parties have a peachy plan to squeeze the fourth out of Germany.

And the Russians propose a return to the bargaining of Yalta and Potsdam. They liked that idea of giving nothing and taking everything.

We won the same kind of victory at Yalta that the UAW won at Detroit.

After only 25 days the UAW persuaded Ford to accept the arbitration which Ford insisted on.

THE VALLEY OF VANISHING RIDERS

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

THE FAT was in the fire. Knowing that, Chip tossed aside all pretense, wheeling his horse and spurting it to a gallop. Ives at his side, the two went thundering across the yard, heading for the open reaches beyond the ranch buildings. Guns began an angry banging, boots beat frantically across the ground and saddle leather squealed as men mounted. The chase was on.

Clear of the ranch buildings, Chip would have headed south toward Tumblerock town. But such riders as were already in the saddle were fanning out below them, and though Chip tried to swing down the basin, he was forced each time to veer northward instead. This was the twilight hour, neither night nor day, when visibility was poorest, but that was in the fugitives' favor since they made uncertain targets for the hungry guns, assailing them. Chip shouted, "North! It's our only chance!" and he and Ives went galloping in that direction.

Now they were into open country, but ahead of them was one of those many clumps of trees. Chip relished the thought of sheltering timber, but before they reached it his horse faltered, stumbled, made a valiant effort to stay standing, then bucked at the knees, bullet-stricken. Kicking free of the stirrups, Chip lighted running. Instantly Ives was hauling on his reins, extending a hand. "Up here!" he shouted.

Catching at Ives' hand, Chip swung behind the man's saddle, wrapped his arms around Ives, and the timber they swallowed them. But once into this shadowy glade, Chip slipped to the ground. "Go on!" he ordered frantically.

Again Ives was hauling at the reins. "Not without you!" he cried. "Climb back up here!" "This is no time for any heroics!" Chip cried. "With that horse double burdened, neither of us will get away. If you want to help me, keep on going and lead them off my trail. It may be a few minutes before they get close enough to find that you're alone. By then I'll be hunkered down in the brush somewhere. My trail leads south, but I can't take it unless you tell 'em off north!" Ives nodded. "You're right!" he decided. "Where do we meet?" "Can you get past the sentry and into Forlorn?"

"I think so," Ives said. "I've gone in many times as Alessandro's foreman. Possibly the Forlorners don't know I'm not holding that job."

"Then head for the valley," Chip ordered. "If I'm not there by noon tomorrow with Lia, tell the Forlorners to look at the paper Clark Rayburn left in his cabin for them. It's a blank parchment. And bring the whole bunch of 'em to raid for a moment before he went on. I haven't already done that chore.

If you can't drag 'em into action any other way, tell 'em it's an order from the governor's representative."

"O.K.," Ives said and went galloping away.

Other hoofs were also beating in this clump of trees. And the pursuit almost upon him, Chip went scurrying into the sheltering shadows. . . .

To the confusion of a ranch gone wild came Seton Alessandro at dusk, dismounting at his own gate to find the yard a milling melstrom of men and horses. Upon this excitement Alessandro wasted no speculation; he had spied Piute saddling at one of the corrals and he hurried to his new foreman and got a hold on his elbow. "What's going on?" Alessandro demanded.

Piute told him in as few words as possible, spinning a fast and frantic story. When he'd finished, an ashy pallor had replaced the olive of Alessandro's face, but the man was still capable of a cool and steady judgment.

"You say that some of the boys are already on the trail of Ives and Halliday?"

"Four or five of 'em grabbed whatever horses were ready and waiting," Piute said. "Listen, you can hear 'em shooting up north."

"And Lia's back in her room?" And you're sure she managed to tell Halliday everything she knew about St. John?"

"After I'd laid out Ives, I crept to the corner of the house," Piute said. "I heard them talking, and I listened. Lia was spinning a yarn about the night of the storm and how you and her had moved Halliday and St. John's body to the Bear Creek schoolhouse."

Alexandro's thin lips drew tight, and he was alive in his velvety eyes. "Get the hounds, Piute," he said. "You're the one man of the crew who can handle them as well as I can. I want the dogs on the trail at once, and I want every rider in his saddle, except Yampa. Spread the boys out; send some of them to the Forlorn pass with orders to let nobody in or out of the valley. But wait! I've got a little deal on that may mean Clark Rayburn will be coming this way tonight. He can go into the valley, but he's not to come out. And some of the other boys must cut off the trail to Tumblerock. There'll be no rest for any man or beast on this ranch till Ives and Halliday are bagged. Do you understand me?"

Piute said, "I reckon I do, boss. It's your neck if they get away." "They won't get away," Alessandro assured him. "Now jump! I'll be along in a very few minutes."

He went striding toward the house, but he paused near the enclosure that held the hounds, and he studied the upstairs windows for a moment before he went on. Inside the building, he called Yampa, and when the sentry came down from the upstairs hallway, Alessandro was awaiting him in the study.

"Lia's in her room?" Alessandro asked.

Yampa nodded. "I ain't been five feet from the door since I locked her up again."

"The rest of the boys are riding, out you'll stay here, Yampa. From what Piute tells me, you failed me once today. Don't fail me again." Yampa's eyes narrowed. "She won't get away, boss."

"She'd better not! I'm taking the hounds out of the pen, but I've sized up the back of the house, and she'd break a leg if she tried dropping from the window. Ives must have come down the rain pipe, but she can't reach it from her room. But look in on her once in a while anyway."

"Sure, boss," Yampa said and was dismissed by a wave of Alessandro's hand.

After the man had gone, Alessandro dipped into his pocket and fingered a letter. It was that same letter Jasper Fogg had written to the governor of Montana; Alessandro had read it once, but now he glanced at it again. Then he placed it in the fireplace, touched a match to it and watched till it had burned away. For a space he stood in silent contemplation, then he crossed to his teakwood desk, took his silver-mounted forty-five from a drawer, and also a small vial containing a white, crystalline powder. With a faint smile, he dumped the powder into the wine decanter on his desk.

Then he stepped to the gun case along one wall, fished a key from his pocket and unlocked the case and lifted out a heavy express rifle that had served him in India and Africa. A big game hunter was going on his greatest quest.

Stepping out of the study with the rifle under his arm, he locked the door behind him, called Yampa again and pressed the key into the guard's hand.

"I had business with Jasper Fogg in town today," Alessandro said. "I waited all afternoon in his office for him to return, but he was out getting a skunk and never showed back. So I left a note, telling him to come here as fast as he's able. Probably he'll arrive tonight or tomorrow morning. Let him into the study when he shows up, and tell him to wait there till I return. Understand? But see that nobody else goes in there!"

Yampa nodded, and Alessandro went striding out of the house. Behind the fenced enclosure, the hounds, finding the excitement of this night contagious, were snarling and snapping and scratching at the gate. When Alessandro released them, they came swarming out, milling about him and whining eagerly. The hounds were ready, and the hunt was on.

NEW YORK—A little less than 173 years ago, George Washington put on his cocked hat, got on his horse and rode downtown from the Jumel mansion, in upper Manhattan, to a point that historians later fixed at approximately Fifth avenue and 34th street.

British troops had landed from Long Island and were beating the ears off the Colonials in one of the most one-sided of the Revolutionary wars battles.

General Washington, often a hero, also was often discreet, and on arriving at the scene he did nothing more or less than direct the strategic retreat of the 3,500 badly-beaten American soldiers. Later on, General Putnam came to the rescue with reinforcements, but that, as they say in the Roy Rogers movies, is another story.

This historical fact is noted for the benefit of those young souls who may have figured that, like the Pyramids, the Empire State building has been standing at 34th and Fifth since the beginning of time.

The Empire State building was 18 years of age the other morning, and in celebration of that coming-of-maturity anniversary, your writer did some research on its history.

He unearthed some pleasant facts with which he presently will mystify and delight you, but he found nothing which would give him an indication of the gooseflesh-and-glory feeling that this gargantuan of buildings gives to the New Yorker.

You can be buried deep in the lower East Side, gnawing thoughtfully on a knish, and look up in the spring sunlight and see its steeple gleaming and wonderful.

You can be drawing away from Manhattan on the Queen Elizabeth, and peering out from the stern, see it eyeing you austerely and yet benevolently. You are aware, wherever you are in the night in New York, of the majesty and grandeur of the softly-lighted needle with its red belt.

The Empire State building is with you always, it is one of the few tourist attractions in the city that the native New Yorker has taken to heart. As Mary Martin sings, it's as corny as Kansas in August to go to the top of the Empire State building—but we do it and love it.

THE PYRAMIDS MAY HAVE BEEN an architectural wonder, but it seems reasonable to say that the Empire State was a somewhat more efficient job. It was worked on by 3,400 men and was built in less than a year. At one time, the steel framework went up at the rate of more than a story a day.

In the 18 years of its existence, nearly 10,000,000 persons have visited its observatories and a little more than two dozen have jumped to the street from assorted parts of its anatomy, bent on and succeeding in shuffling off this mortal coil.

The building has been struck by lightning nine times in a single storm, but since its steel spine makes it an ideal lightning rod, there have been no electrocutions.

It contains 61 passenger elevators, which have ferried some 328,500,000 passengers up and down, and the maintenance costs during its lifetime have been $74,376,000, or approximately twice the estimated value of the building and property.

After the prevailing fashion, a cornerstone full of junk was laid back in 1930 by the late former Gov. Alfred E. Smith. It appears to have been one of the dullest cornerstones on record.

It contains a copper box which holds a history of the building and of the construction company involved, coinage and paper currency of 1930 from one cent to a $100 bill, photographs of the officers of the building company, the architects and contractors and a rag-paper edition of a daily newspaper. There are no pieces of bubble gum and no Vaughan Monroe phonograph records.

THE EMPIRE STATE HAS BEEN CLIMBED a few times—first by Pete McGuire, a guard in the building, then by two small boys whose names never were obtained, and later by a 49-year-old Vermont farmer who was 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighed 120 pounds.

There are 2,240 steps, each one seven inches high. Two hundred and twenty-five cleaners, who use 180 gallons of liquid soap a day, keep the joint looking spotless, and seven window washers work endlessly on the 6,500 windows in the building.

Nineteen mechanics are on fulltime pay to take care of the elevators and there are a couple of lonely souls who do nothing but replace burned-out light bulbs. All in all, the building employs some 650 men and women.

Bomb threats, suicides and other acts of violence have dotted its history, but it is likely the most spectacular piece of news in which it was involved was the crash into it in 1945 of an Army medium bomber.

I remember emerging from Penn station that morning and seeing the plane still half-stuck in the side of the building, with flames and smoke pouring out and, inside—although I didn't know it at the time—13 persons in various stages of death.

RESULTS OF BAD WINTER

THE weather, sometimes the enemy and sometimes the ally of the farmer, rancher and cattleman, occasionally cancels out blows with blessings.

This fact has been illustrated in reports of the latest effects of the past severe winter. The huge amounts of snow deposited on the great western plains by seven weeks of blizzards have been absorbed as moisture by the land. The temperatures of the Spring have regulated the melting and running off of the snow to the extent that fear of great general floods has not been realized. Irrigation water is plentiful and will continue so, because of snow piled on mountain tops.

While Nebraska reports severe winter wheat damage, good prospects are seen there for grain soon this Spring. Kansas expects the third largest wheat crop on record. Other western states report crop prospects as good or better than average. Livestock owners are optimistic about this year's gains, which are expected nearly, if not quite, to make up for the winter's losses.

Farmers and ranchers, if they are to survive, must be philosophers. The disheartening lack of cooperation which often seems to be shown by Nature must be accepted with equanimity. Her occasional good moods must be seized upon and made use of. The year has been described as a circle; the farmer-philosopher must see it in the round and have faith that it encompasses complete fruition.

FINDING A MAID

HOUSEWIVES who have been desperately searching for a maid might try looking in New York City. This word comes from the New York State Labor Department, which attributes the availability of maids to slackening employment. Time was when every moderately well-to-do family had a maid. Except for occasional help from outside, those days are over. So far as can now be seen the lady of the moderately financed house will be the cook, cleaning woman and maid of all work for an indefinite period. The New York straw to the contrary is only a straw.

New household gadgets continue to relieve the homemaker of part of her drudgery, as many have done already. There is no surplus of maids because so many other fields are now open to women. They go into factories by thousands.

HAS THE corner drug store replaced the old grocery store cracker barrel as the mainstay of American civilization?

When Comrade Vishinsky, who bowed like an old-fashioned diplomat according to reports, raised the issue of putting Japan on the agenda of the four powers, he was not fooling. It was a wise move from the Russian standpoint and logical from the state of events. It is probably the most important business that was raised in Paris.

The reason is that the Russians have outflanked us in Japan. Their military movements in China, their conquest of so much of that country, the treacherous stupidity of the State Department policy in China, their failure to grasp that derelict nations must today either lean on the Russians or on us and that if we remove ourselves, they will be forced to embrace the Russians—all that gave Vishinsky his reason and his opportunity. With all his politeness and his hand-shakes, Vishinsky was full of sardonic fun. He was laughing up his sleeve.

There must be no mistaking what it would mean if we withdrew our troops from either Germany or Japan. It would mean that sooner or later those derelict countries would fall into the hands of the Russians. It is true that Western Germany has recovered surprisingly and probably could, in time, become the savior of Europe as a competent industrial nation. As for Japan, it can become a powerful nation under our tutelage; it might even become the savior of the East of Asia. Without us, Japan and Korea must go as Manchuria, Mongolia and North China have gone. Maybe that is what the smart boys in the State Department have always wanted; maybe that is what they planned when they wrote Gen. George Marshall's orders on his tour in China—a tour that might have ended successfully, instead of in failure, had he not so rigidly adhered to those instructions.

Obviously at this state, the Asiatic question—I use Asiatic instead of China for greater accuracy—is no longer in the field of diplomacy. It is no longer limited to the countries on the other side of the Pacific. It is strictly a matter of the national defense of the United States. It is strictly a matter of military planning and activity.

Suppose Gen. Chiang Kai-shek does establish a base in Formosa, out of which he deploys guerrillas in South China to scorch the earth, to burn cities, to develop mass resistance; it will not be sufficient to keep the Russians out of Burma, Malaya, Indonesia, French Indo-China and eventually India. If, on the other hand, the forces of the United States under Gen. MacArthur in Japan combine with the efforts of Chiang as a rebel against Russian aggression, a sufficient power can be developed to contain the Russians in Manchuria and North China down to Shanghai.

When Vishinsky in Paris raised the question of Japan, he was, in reality, hitting at this problem. When he speaks of a peace treaty with Japan, he really refers to the withdrawal of MacArthur from Japan. This means that Chiang would be permanently deserted and that the Philippines would, in the end, be forced into the Soviet world. When a man has this in mind, he can afford to be as surprisingly polite as the reports say he was at the opening session in Paris.

There is only one solution to this problem and that is to send a military mission to Asia to determine our course.

DIET AND HEALTH
New Infant Care in Hospitals

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THERE can be no doubt that as a rule birth is safer today in a hospital, and that the mother is usually well cared for there in the days immediately following the delivery of her baby. On the other hand, there is no denying that epidemics, particularly of infant diarrhea, which sometimes break out in hospital nurseries, are a grave threat to the baby.

In an attempt to prevent such outbreaks, and also bring mothers closer to their babies, a new plan has been tried in a number of hospitals. Instead of being placed in a nursery, the baby stays in a room with its mother. One such study of more than 1400 cases indicates that this method helped to prevent epidemic infections, improved the relation between mother and baby, and served as a stimulus to breast feeding.

Trained Supervision
Furthermore, with the baby at her bedside, the mother, first by watching the care given by trained people, next by undertaking it herself under trained supervision, becomes acquainted with the baby's habits and gains much more confidence in being able to care for the baby at home.

Among the more than 1400 babies who were cared for at the bedside of the mother in a well-known hospital, there was not one case of skin infection or serious disturbances of the stomach or bowel.

It is felt that if any single newborn baby gets an infection when the above type of procedure is used, it can be controlled by confining the disorder to the one room in which it occurs. Of course, if the mothers are cared for in wards, there might be up to six babies exposed in a ward but, even in such cases, the infection is confined to a single ward room. Outbreaks will not occur even in nurseries if proper technique are used.

Pride in Care
It was found, too, that when the babies were kept by their mothers, besides the mothers did not have more time on their hands than they knew what to do with. Instead, the mothers kept close guard over their infants and took pride in their care.

It was noted that the entire atmosphere of the ward changed, becoming hushed and quiet. It is rare in this type of procedure for the babies to do much crying. It was also found that more than 85 percent of the mothers nursed their babies. The mother put the baby to the breast whenever it appeared to be hungry. The milk came in more freely, and one-fourth of the babies regained their birth weight by the fifth day after birth.

It would appear that this type of newborn baby care in hospitals is deserving of the further study and investigation that it is not getting.

The Russians saw political significance in the arrival of Tom Dewey in Paris but if he has any he must have developed it since he left here.

Still they've got a point. It is hard to believe a man who brings his wife to Paris and says: "I came here for a good time."

Not that a man couldn't have a good time in Paris with his wife, but has anyone ever tried it before?

Anyway the four-party conference is coming along nicely. Three of the parties have a peachy plan to squeeze the fourth out of Germany.

And the Russians propose a return to the bargaining of Yalta and Potsdam. They liked that idea of giving nothing and taking everything.

We won the same kind of victory at Yalta that the UAW won at Detroit.

After only 25 days the UAW persuaded Ford to accept the arbitration which Ford insisted on.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE
THE FAT was in the fire. Knowing that, Chip tossed aside all pretense, wheeled his horse and spurring it to a gallop, Ives at his side, the two went thundering across the yard, heading for the open reaches beyond the ranch buildings. Guns began an angry banging, boots beat frantically across the ground and saddle leather squealed as men mounted. The chase was on.

Clear of the ranch buildings, Chip would have headed south toward Tumblerock town. But such riders as were already in saddles were fanning out below them, and though Chip tried to swing down the basin, he was forced each time to veer northward instead. This was the twilight hour, neither night nor day, when visibility was poorest, but that was in the fugitives' favor since they made uncertain targets for the hungry guns harassing them. Chip shouted, "North! It's our only chance!" and he and Ives went galloping in that direction.

Now they were into open country, but ahead of them was one of those many clumps of trees. Chip relished the thought of sheltering himself, but before they reached it his horse faltered, stumbled, made a valiant effort to stay standing, then buckled at the knees, bullet-stricken. Kicking free of the stirrups, Chip lighted running. Instantly Ives was hauling on his reins, extending a hand. "Up here!" he shouted.

Catching at Ives' hand, Chip swung behind the man's saddle, wrapped his arms around Ives, and the timber swallowed them. But once into this shadowy glade, Chip slipped to the ground. "Go on!" he ordered frantically.

Again Ives was hauling at the reins. "Not without you!" he cried. "Climb back up here!"

"This is no time for any heroics!" Chip cried. "With that horse double-bred, neither of us will get away. If you want to help me, keep on going and lead them off my trail. It may be a few minutes before they get close enough to find that you're alone. By then I'll be hunkered down in the brush somewhere. My trail leads south, but I can't take it, unless you tell 'em off north."

Ives nodded. "You're right!" he decided. "Where do we meet?"

"Can you get past the sentry and into Forlorn?"

"I think so," Ives said. "I've gone in many times as Alessandro's foreman. Possibly the Forlorners don't know I'm not holding that job."

"Then head for the valley," Chip ordered. "If I'm not there by noon tomorrow with Lia, tell the Forlorners to look at the paper Clark Rayburn left in his cabin for them. It's a blanket pardon. And bring the whole bunch of 'em to raid Alessandro's ranch and get Lia if I haven't already done that chore."

23 CLASSES SCHEDULED

Saddle Horse Show Set For Pickaway County Fair

The dates, Sept. 8 and 9, have been set for the fourth annual saddle horse show at the Pickaway County Fair, with entries scheduled to close Sept. 1.

The two events include 23 classes with 12 being booked for the opening night's show.

Classes are set up for walking horses-mares; three-gaited combination; five-gaited amateur; pony under 46 in. under saddle; pony over 46 in. in harness; three-gaited saddle horse under 15.2; five-gaited mares; walking horses-stallions and geldings; fine harness, three-gaited saddle horse under 15.2 and over, and five-gaited stallions and geldings.

For the Friday show, classes will include pleasure pony class for Pickaway County; amateur three-gaited; equitation class—children 12 to 18 years; pony under 46 in. under saddle; pleasure horse for Pickaway Counties, (walk-trot-canter) English tack required; pony under 46 in. in harness; fine harness stake; three-gaited stake; walking horse stake; five-gaited stake, and hunter and jumper stake.

ALL PRIZE MONEY will be paid in the ring. Prizes range from $6 in the equitation class for children 12 to 18 years up to $20 for first in other classifications.

Highest awards are for the last five classes at the Friday show. These are $70 for first, $40 second, and $25 third.

Managers of the horse show have set down a list of rules and regulations. They say no charge is to be made for stalls, the first bedding is furnished and a very limited number of tack stalls are to be had at $5 each. A blanket fee of $5 per pony covers the entire entrance fee for all open pony classes in which the pony qualifies to show.

A blanket entrance fee of $12 per horse permits the exhibitor to show the horse in any class in which it is qualified.

Dr. A. B. Plummer of Millersburg, Ky., member of the American Saddle Horse Show committee, will serve as judge as he did for the 1948 show. He will judge the saddle horses, walking horses, ponies, equitation and fine harness classes.

Al Leggett of Columbus will judge the hunter and jumper classes. Steve Valley of Waverly will serve as announcer.

TOM A. RENICK of Circleville will be ringmaster; receptionist, Mrs. L. K. Athey; secretary and ring clerk, Miss Dorothy Updyke; paddock stewards, Bernard W. Young, Paul E. Adkins and Lewis Cook.

Attractive programs have been designed by Miss Anne Renick of Circleville. The blue and orange cover is centered with a black horse.

Lewis, Moody Due To Tangle On Pact Again

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., June 2—John L. Lewis and the Southern Coal Producers Association squared off today for the second round in their battle over a new 1949 soft coal wage contract.

The point at issue is whether the United Mine Workers president would consent to deal with the SCPA for a new agreement to replace the existing pact expiring June 30.

Lewis wants a national, industry-wide bargaining parley and is reluctant to negotiate with only one segment of the bituminous producers.

Joseph E. Moody, president of the SCPA, stood ready—if need be—to seek a court injunction under the Taft-Hartley law to force the bushy-browed union leader to do business.

Moody invited Lewis to a nego-

Prices Increase, Volume Drops In Stock Sale Here

Prices showed an increase, while volume dropped, during this week's Pickaway County Livestock Association auction.

A drop of 379 head was noted when 583 were auctioned, as compared with 962 for the week before.

Cattle receipts showed a drop of 47 head, from the 143 sold during the previous week to the 96 marketed Wednesday.

Hog receipts dropped sharply from the 700 auctioned last week to 375 for Wednesday, a decrease of 325.

A decline of seven head was apparent in calf receipts, with 112 being sold this week, as tiating session last week. The UMW chief showed up and promptly challenged the association's bargaining status and forced a week's recess in the talks.

Today, Moody was to attempt to prove to Lewis that he represents enough coal companies in Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia to make a valid contract with the union.

Latest reports indicated that the SCPA chief was authorized to negotiate for close to 100 million tons of coal production annually in the four states.

GLAMOUR MAY BE KNOCKED OFF

Despite TV Growth, Radio Men Sure Of Prosperity

NEW YORK, June 2—There has been a lot of talk lately by industry leaders on the subject of the future of radio versus television.

The question, of course, is: "Will television kill radio, and if so, when?"

At the moment, many of the big trains of the industry seem to think the answer is "no." They believe that radio will keep right on going—with some of the big-money glamour knocked off, perhaps, but still strong and sound.

That isn't a unanimous opinion, by any means. The more rabid video boosters think radio eventually is doomed. Witness a recent advertisement by the Dumont Television Network, which says in part:

"Dumont got where it is with no help from radio, and is under no compulsion to support radio in its declining years. Dumont is selling television—the medium of today and tomorrow. The task of upholding the fading glories of dead yesterday is left to those who are stuck with it."

EVEN WAYNE COY, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, told broadcasters at their recent convention in Chicago to quit stalling and get into television.

He outlined plans for low-cost television repeater transmitters spreading out across the country. These, he suggested, would

Lausche Denies State Running In Red Now

COLUMBUS, June 2 — Gov. Frank Lausche has denied published reports that the state operated in the red at a million-dollar-a-month rate the first four months of 1949.

The governor said that "in actuality, we are breaking about even."

The stories were based on the four months' report of Finance Director Herbert Defenbacher, which showed receipts of $102 million and expenditures of $107 million—an apparent deficit of some $5 million.

The governor pointed out, however, that the $107 million included two items for capital improvements expended under authority of a previous appropriation.

The two items—$9.5 million for capital improvements and $1.5 million for highways—total slightly more than $11 million dollars.

Hence, the governor said, there was only $96 million spent from general revenue funds with receipts of $102 million.

Several Pickaway County youngsters—high school musicians, Boy Scouts, 4-H leaders and FFA officers—are to be heard in a radio broadcast originating at Columbus and carried over Station WRFD Saturday afternoon.

bring video reception to large areas of the nation without waiting for the installation of complete stations.

But the people who are running plain, old-fashioned radio stations are beginning to relax a little after all the alarms and excursions caused by the big television boom of the last year.

For one thing, despite the tremendous growth of the new medium and despite all the ballyhoo in its behalf, a large part of the country is still without television.

It will be a long time before it approaches the coverage now provided by radio. According to one report in a trade publication, 40 percent of the country will still be without television even after the coaxial cable reaches from coast to coast.

And the retiring president of the Radio Manufacturers Association has summed up the opinion of the people who make radio and television sets, Max Balcom scoffs at suggestions that television will put broadcasting out of business. He predicts that radio will continue "indefinitely"—although he forecasts that there will be six million television receivers in operation by 1951.

FREUDIAN BOYS WRONG?

Scientists Plan To Tell If Normal People Happy

NEW YORK, June 2—The Rockefeller Foundation, a truly noble institution, has endowed Harvard university with sufficient funds to study "normal happy people whose personalities hold the key to successful living."

This is a sensational new development in the psychiatric field, indicating that both the foundation and Harvard believe that normal people are happy, or maybe that happy people are normal.

What is even more impressive is that piquant, round-about admission that there are happy people. Or rather, that Harvard and the Foundation believe there are, and are willing to explore the field.

Ever since most people can remember, the Freudian boys have been working feverishly to prove that everyone and his dog is unhappy, miserable, frustrated, inhibited, repressed and capable of axing his old mother if a weapon comes to hand.

LESS THAN a week ago, there was a news story about the rescue of a Great Dane from the Los Angeles pound by an understanding psychiatrist. The latter said the dog had bitten his owner, because the pooch felt confused, insecure and had an itching id.

The dog at this very moment may be curled up on a Hollywood couch, barking out the sad saga of a misunderstood youth, while the psychiatrist shakes his head over what happens when a pup is spanked for chewing up the family rubbers.

But to get back to people: The general psychiatric assumption that everyone is unhinged and suffering from sciatica of the subconscious is so widespread that the central character in a Broadway revue last winter was listed on the program simply as "the normal neurotic."

No one seemed to find anything particularly surprising or funny about that since the psychiatrists union has pretty well convinced the nation that everyone is neurotic, only some more so than others.

Some observers have a hunch that the couch-and-confess boys will throw a picket line around the Foundation and Harvard if they prove that normal happy persons still exist.

"There is a feeling that to create a world that encourages normalcy and happiness, more must be known about normal happy people," says Chester I. Barnard, head of the Rockefeller Foundation. "Each individual should know not only what is normal and desirable but also how to achieve it."

THE FOUNDATION is also supporting Harvard in another psychiatric survey. It is supplying the university with funds to study the "normal" Harvard undergraduate.

Somehow, this seems to be putting the cart before the horse. Shouldn't there first be a survey to determine if Harvard undergraduates are normal? Or can anyone, even a psychiatrist, tell?

FREUDIAN BOYS WRONG?

Scientists Plan To Tell If Normal People Happy

NEW YORK, June 2—The Rockefeller Foundation, a truly noble institution, has endowed Harvard university with sufficient funds to study "normal happy people whose personalities hold the key to successful living."

This is a sensational new development in the psychiatric field, indicating that both the foundation and Harvard believe that normal people are happy, or maybe that happy people are normal.

What is even more impressive is that piquant, round-about admission that there are happy people. Or rather, that Harvard and the Foundation believe there are, and are willing to explore the field.

Ever since most people can remember, the Freudian boys have been working feverishly to prove that everyone and his dog is unhappy, miserable, frustrated, inhibited, repressed and capable of axing his old mother if a weapon comes to hand.

LESS THAN a week ago, there was a news story about the rescue of a Great Dane from the Los Angeles pound by an understanding psychiatrist. The latter said the dog had bitten his owner, because the pooch felt confused, insecure and had an itching id.

The dog at this very moment may be curled up on a Hollywood couch, barking out the sad saga of a misunderstood youth, while the psychiatrist shakes his head over what happens when a pup is spanked for chewing up the family rubbers.

But to get back to people: The general psychiatric assumption that everyone is unbalanced and suffering from sciatica of the subconscious is so widespread that the central character in a Broadway revue last winter was listed on the program simply as "the normal neurotic."

No one seemed to find anything particularly surprising or funny about that since the psychiatrists union has pretty well convinced the nation that everyone is neurotic, only some more so than others.

Some observers have a hunch that the couch-and-confess boys will throw a picket line around the Foundation and Harvard if they prove that normal happy persons still exist.

"There is a feeling that to create a world that encourages normalcy and happiness, more must be known about normal happy people," says Chester I. Barnard, head of the Rockefeller Foundation. "Each individual should know not only what is normal and desirable but also how to achieve it."

THE FOUNDATION is also supporting Harvard in another psychiatric survey. It is supplying the university with funds to study the "normal" Harvard undergraduate.

Somehow, this seems to be putting the cart before the horse. Shouldn't there first be a survey to determine if Harvard undergraduates are normal? Or can anyone, even a psychiatrist, tell?

Pueblitos Found To Have Several Rare Villages

Editor's Note: In this second article of a series tracing life in Mexico back 20,000 years, Archeologist Richard S. MacNeish tells of the "Pueblitos"—mountain-top dwellers whose culture began about 700 A. D.

By Dr. Richard S. MacNeish
Written Expressly for INS

The exploration of the northernmost ruins yet found in Mexico—the desolate remains of the undiscovered cities of the Pueblitos secreted in the mountain fastness of the Sierra Tamaulipas—was purely accidental.

The purpose of the first Tamaulipas expedition was to unearth evidence of trade between the Mexican isthmus and North America before the white man's arrival. For that reason our headquarters were on the coast.

BUT I KEPT hearing rumors of unexplored ruins inland. Amateur archaeologists in the town of Victoria swore up and down that there were a number of ruins perched high in the Sierra Tamaulipas about 75 miles inland.

There was only one thing to do—look at them personally. My wife, June, and I hitched a ride on an inland-bound truck and spent 10 body-punishing hours jolting over the deeply-cut ox-cart wheel tracks marking the only path to the primitive town of Los Angeles, which grimly clutches the base of the mountain.

The patriarch of the town—a brilliant old Mexican who told me he read three newspapers every day—was delighted at the arrival of a "scientist." He insisted on guiding us to the ruins.

They turned out to be seven hours of exhausting walking away, and the old guide had to reassure me constantly, after the first few hours, that the ruins really existed. He was right. There, jutting boldly against the sky from the peak of the last hill, were the geometrically formed tops of a number of pyramids.

TO DESCRIBE how I felt would be impossible, for unexplored ruins occur all too seldom in an archaeologist's lifetime.

It was no wonder the ruins had not been explored before. Situated in a rugged, mountainous country deeply cut by arroyos (dried stream beds) and pockmarked with canyons, they could have remained hidden forever, known only to a few natives.

A hasty examination of one of the sites showed thousands of fragments of pottery littering the surface of the ground. As soon as arrangements could be made I returned with a crew of four to do some extensive excavating. Within two weeks of my return the thick soles of my Army shoes had been cut to threads by the sand-paper action of the rock surface of the area. To ruin a pair of Army shoes in that space of time takes some doing, but it shows the general ruggedness of the country.

The greatest difficulty was knowing where to start work. There were 12 different sites—or cities—within 50 miles, all perched on the tops of steep hills.

Tall grass and ground-crawling vegetation hid implements and fragments from view, but by burning off the surface and making numerous small excavations enough objects were turned up to give an accurate picture of the life of the inhabitants. From their size and ruined building foundations, it was probable that each town had populations ranging from 3,000 to 4,000 people. And their layout was almost uncannily identical.

ALL OF THE towns clung precariously to the peak of the hill while the ruins of the houses faithfully followed the contour lines of the mountain top.

The peculiar selection of a mountain top and the stringing of the houses around the edge led me to believe that they were deliberately built that way for protection—but whether against marauding savages or as strongholds against attacks from neighboring villages will have to be determined later.

In each town there was a large pyramid—soaring 30 feet upward and crowned with the remains of a temple—on the north of making all needed repairs to your home. It will greatly increase the comfort and well being of your family—it will protect your investment—it will avoid more costly repairs later. See us about a conveniently budgeted loan.

side of a central plaza. Smaller pyramids about five feet in height surrounded the rest of the market place.

The pyramids amply proved religion of some sort played an important part in the peoples' lives. Among objects excavated were many small figurines—obviously of some deity—mass-produced from clay molds.

Pottery fragments—which can date an ancient civilization almost as well as a newspaper—show that the towns were not all populated at the same time and existed in three distinct periods.

Roughly, the Pueblitos culture existed from 700 A. D. to until 1300 A. D., spanning the time from the rise of the great Mexican cities until the end of the golden age of the Mayas.

Welding Firm Plans Contest

CLEVELAND, June 2 — The James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation today offered farmers and professional agriculturists the opportunity to compete for a total of $25,000 in awards and scholarships.

Prizes ranging from $1,500 to $500 will be awarded for the best descriptions of how arc welding is being used on farms to increase the efficiency of farm operation and maintenance.

The contest is to be separated into two divisions so that farmers do not compete against professional educators and other specialists.

Frederick Dent Grant, son of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, was with his father when a child of 12, during several battles of the Civil war, and was wounded at Vicksburg.

Housecleaning Cannot Wait

CLEVELAND, June 2 — Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, president of Ohio Wesleyan university, believes government housecleaning "cannot wait for the next generation."

Speaking before the Federal Trade Association here yesterday, Flemming stated that the government system of checks and balances will "prove increasingly meaningless unless we set our house in order." He maintained that to obtain economy and efficiency in government, Congress must fix responsibility for various jobs, give the people with that responsibility authority to act, and set controls within the limits of congressional controls.

Obituary

Elmer Ellsworth Prindle, the last member of his family was born the son of David and Elizabeth Goheen on June 19, 1865 and departed this life May 20, 1943 at the age of 77 years. He was a member of The Methodist Church of Darbyville, Ohio. He was united in marriage to Louella Jones May 20, 1888 and preceded him in death. Born to this union were nine children, five of whom preceded him in death. Those he left to mourn are: Mrs. Myrtle Moul of New Holland, O.; Mrs. Anna Prindle of Circleville, Miss; Rosella Prindle of Cincinnati and Mrs. Elizabeth Bethards of Commercial Point. Also surviving are six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Those whom we love go out of sight,
They never out of mind.
They are cherished in the hearts,
Of those they leave behind.
Loving and true to the end of his days,
Sincere and just in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.
The Family

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our appreciation to relatives, friends and neighbors for their sympathy, kindness and beautiful floral tributes. The Rev. O. W. Smith for his comforting words, Mrs. Ralph Hoelzer for her vocal selections, and the C. E.
Hill Funeral Home for their services.
All have our lasting gratitude.
The Family

Louis Says Ducat Sale Going Good

Charles-Walcott Bout Awaited

MOMENCE, Ill., June 2—Joe Louis had a startled look in his eyes.

"We've sold," said he, as if he couldn't quite believe it, "$101.00 in advance tickets."

Everybody in the joint had to admit that was fine for three weeks before the Ezzard Charles-Joe Walcott heavy-weight title fight which Louis, in company with the formidable payor twins, Art and Wirtz and Jim Norris, is promoting at Chicago's Comiskey Park June 22.

Through yesterday 9,511 tickets had been sold in the four price categories ($22.75, $16.75, $9.75 and $6.25) available in advance. The $3.75 seats go on sale the day of the fight.

Of the 9,511, nearly one-third—3,052—have been the top-price ringside jobs at $22.75 per. That's $69,433 right there.

The International Boxing Club boys are freely predicting a $50,000 gross gate now, exclusive of movie, radio and television rights. They were supposed to be glad to settle for $20,000.

MOST OF THE advance sale has been out-of-town money, but that doesn't disturb anybody. Louis pointed out yesterday that an outdoor show never does well locally until two or three days before the bout.

It's understood the deal whereby NBC and CBS are buying into all IBC fights—and a whopper of a deal it is—practically has been delivered. No television contract has been signed yet, however, for the Charles-Walcott bout.

The IBC is insisting if the June 22 title match is televised it be done via coaxial cable only, with the area within a 300-mile radius of Comiskey Park "blackout" as not to interfere with the live gate potential.

Charles, training in Momence, 12 miles away from Walcott's camp, will resume boxing drills today after taking yesterday off. Walcott went five brisk rounds and floored one of his foes, Johnny Wilson, with an abrupt left to the jaws.

Some sensitive taxpayer once blurted that there's nothing more certain than death and taxes. However, the tax collectors themselves are now trying to plug business that has made the tax scoop as uncertain as a nearsighted pebble in a three-way intersection. Washington wants a sure method of putting the bite on tips received by waiters and car-hops. The problem is how much do they get and how can you prove it? The Govt. can't keep a little man under every plate... even though they're looking for extra gravy. But we have perfect confidence in the tax dept. Look for tips to be tapped for a tip-top total.

Birds' Natin Leading AA In Big Bat Listing

COLUMBUS, June 2—St. Paul took back the American Association lead from Milwaukee today, but Mike Natin of the Columbus Red Birds was homerun king of the loop.

Mike lofted one over the wall in the opening of the fifth last night, starting a four-run rally which gave the Birds their first victory of the season over Minneapolis on the Millers' home grounds. It was his sixteenth of the season.

The Columbus 9-6 victory came the hard way. The game was interrupted by rain in the last of the seventh and the score reverted to its 8-6 mark which held at the end of the sixth.

However, the pitchers started warming up again at 1 a. m. today after a two-hour delay and the game carried on. Bob Habenicht was credited with the victory.

St. Paul regained the lead by virtue of a 4-1 win over Louisville in which Karl Morrison allowed the Colonels only four hits. One of them was a homer by Jim Jones. But circuit clouts by Dan Ozark and Hank Schenz gave the Saints all the room they needed.

Kansas City hung on to its sixth place tie with Columbus by the 8-5 trouncing it handed Toledo.

Milwaukee split a twin bill with Indianapolis 8-1 and 3-5 which left the Brewers half-a-game out of the lead.

Big 10 Chiefs Pick Squad For Coast Contest

CHICAGO, June 2—Western Conference headquarters today announced the makeup of the 34-man squad that will represent the Big Ten in quest of its fourth straight victory in the dual track and field series with the Pacific Coast Conference.

The meet this year will be held at the University of California in Berkeley June 21, just following the NCAA championships in Los Angeles, in which the Big Ten athletes also will compete. Minnesota, the Big Ten champion, is defending NCAA titlist.

Ten of the 34 Big Ten athletes scored points in the meet against the coast conference a year ago, and among the ten are four outright winners from the 1948 event:

Charles Peters of Indiana in the 220; Mal Whitfield of Ohio State in the 440; Jim Holland of Northwestern in the broadjump; and Herb Barten of Michigan in the mile. Dwight Eddleman of Illinois tied for first in the high-jump.

Robinson, Kid To Draw Heavy

PHILADELPHIA, June 2—Promoters predicted today that Welterweight King Ray (Sugar) Robinson and Kid Gavilan will draw a $200,000 gate in Philadelphia next month.

The Harlem puncher and the Cuban kid were singled by the Philadelphia Arena Corp., yesterday for a 15-round title bout in Municipal Stadium on July 11. Peter A. Tyrrell, arena president, announced Robinson would get 40 percent of the gate and Gavilan, 18½ percent.

Birds Return Krieger To Staff

MINNEAPOLIS, June 2—The Columbus Red Birds returned one pitcher to their roster today and dropped another.

Kurt Krieger rejoined the flock here after the cast was removed from a broken bone in his pitching hand.

At the same time, the Birds' front office announced that Ike Pearson had been returned to the Memphis Chickies of the Southern Association.

CAN COME DOWN IN SPRING Maybe Veeck Should Join That Man Atop Flagpole

NEW YORK, June 2—That fan in Cleveland who climbed up on a flagpole atop his drug store to sit until the Cleveland Indians get back into first place in the American League, may soon discover that he has also climbed out on a terrible limb.

If attention was what he wanted to attract—and what else?—it's a good stunt. However, observers see a simple way in which it could be improved, so as to attract twice as much attention.

Bill Veeck, the president of the Indians, likes such novel ideas and if he wants to make this one really good, he can join Mr. Charles Lupica and sit it out on those lines if it takes all Winter. Which there is every indication at the moment that it will. But it offers a wonderful opportunity for Veeck to advertise next Spring's opening game. In theory all teams are in first place on opening day. Which may be the first chance Mr. Lupica will have to descend from his perch.

SURELY NOBODY will deny that this suggestion is right down Veeck's alley. This time a year ago, Veeck was fairly leaping with ideas for promoting Boudreau's amazing Indians.

This Spring, however, the silence from the shores of Lake Erie is beginning to be almost deafening. Maybe Bill has run out of ideas. Or is it that the Indians have run out of winning ball players?

Last season the coming champions had only one Lemon, Bob, and a fine one with which to make a winning punch he was. This season the Tribe looks to have several lemons.

However, the busy Veeck has assembled a powerful brain trust to back up his own nimble mind: Boudreau, Hank Greenberg, Steve O'Neill, Deacon Bill McKee, Muddy Ruel and Mel Harder. Perhaps all those brains are what's weighing 'em down.

$2,000 Purse Due In Show

NORWALK, June 2—Approximately 250 horses will compete for more than $2000 in prize money, ribbons and trophies at the two-day Erie County Horse Show Saturday and Sunday on Norwalk Fairgrounds.

Classifications include jumpers, three and five-gated, fine harness, walking horses and hackneys.

Judges will be Harry Thornton of Bradfordsville, Ky., and Herbert Broesch of Columbus, Ind., who judged the western show at the state fair last year.

Louis Says Ducat Sale Going Good

Charles-Walcott
Bout Awaited

MOMENCE, Ill., June 2—Joe Louis had a startled look in his eyes.

"We've sold," said he, as if he couldn't quite believe it, "I'll be in advance tickets."

Everybody in the joint had to admit that was fine for three weeks before the Ezzard Charles-Joe Walcott heavy-weight title fight which Louis, in company with the formidable pay-off: twins, Arthur Wirtz and Jim Norris, is promoting at Chicago's Comiskey Park June 22.

Through yesterday 9,511 tickets had been sold in the four price categories ($22.75, $16.75, $9.75 and $6.25) available in advance. The $3.75 seats go on sale the day of the fight.

Of the 9,511, nearly one-third—3,052—have been the top-price ringside jobs at $22.75 per. That's $69,433 right there.

The International Boxing Club boys are freely predicting a $750,000 gross gate now, exclusive of movie, radio and television rights. They were supposed to be glad to settle for $250,000.

MOST OF THE advance sale has been out-of-town money, but that doesn't disturb anybody. Louis pointed out yesterday that an outdoor show never does well locally until two or three days before the bout.

It's understood the deal whereby NBC and CBS are buying into all IBC fights—and a whopper of a deal it is—practically has been delivered. No television contract has been signed yet, however, for the Charles-Walcott bout.

The IBC is insisting if the June 22 title match is televised it be done via coaxial cable only, with the area within a 300-mile radius of Comiskey Park "blackout" as not to interfere with the live gate potential.

Charles, training in Momence, 12 miles away from Walcott's camp, will resume boxing drills today after taking yesterday off. Walcott went five brisk rounds and floored one of his foes, Johnny Wilson, with an abrupt left to the jaws.

Afterwards, one of the photographers asked Louis to pose with Walcott, pointing to the Jersey Joe fist that knocked the Brown Bomber down. "Which fist was it?" the cameraman asked Louis. "The right," Joe said. "You sure?" "You think I'd forget?"

But it offers a wonderful opportunity for Veeck to advertise next Spring's opening game. In theory all teams are in first place on opening day. Which may be the first chance Mr. Lupica will have to descend from his perch.

SURELY NOBODY will deny that this suggestion is right down Veeck's alley. This time a year ago, Veeck was fairly leaping with ideas for promoting Boudreau's amazing Indians.

This Spring, however, the silence from the shores of Lake Erie is beginning to be almost deafening. Maybe Bill has run out of ideas. Or is it that the Indians have run out of winning ball players?

Last season the coming champions had only one lemon, Bob, and a fine one with which to make a winning punch he was. This season the Tribe looks to have several lemons.

However, the busy Veeck has assembled a powerful brain trust to back up his own nimble mind: Boudreau, Hank Greenberg, Steve O'Neill, Deacon Bill McKenzie, Muddy Ruel and Mel Harder. Perhaps all those brains are what's weighing 'em down.

$2,000 Purse Due In Show

NORWALK, June 2—Approximately 250 horses will compete for more than $2000 in prize money, ribbons and trophies at the two-day Erie County Horse Show Saturday and Sunday on Norwalk Fairgrounds.

Classifications include jumpers, three and five-gaited, fine harness, walking horses and hackneys.

Judges will be Harry Thornton of Bradfordsville, Ky., and Herbert Broesch of Columbus, Ind., who judged the western show at the state fair last year.
